What the Republicans will do. The Philadelphia North American has well considered and eminently conservative article discussing the interests and purposes of the Republican party, when it shall have elected Lincoln and assumed the responsibilities of Government. Speaking of the senting the various mercentile and manufactory interests of current senting the various mercentile and manufactory interests of the principal cities of the North and South, it says: "It is high time that both sections stopped recrimination, and come to the conclusion that they are consented to accompany the exercision, are given below.

Instituted a number of gentlemen representation and manufactory interests of the principal cities of the North and South, it says: "It is high time that both sections stopped recrimination, and come to the conclusion that they are consented to accompany the exercision, are given below.

Instituted a number of gentlemen representation and manufactory interests of the principal cities of the North and South, it says: "It is high time that both sections stopped recrimination, and come to the conclusion that they are consented to accompany the exercision, are about equal in patriotism, as they are in all other respects. We intend to take possesnion of the Government next March, and to administer it nationally and liberally; and what is more, we mean to have the assistance of wise and good men from the South in the Cabinet and elsewhere, so that no partiality shall be exhibited. And before sixty days there will be plenty of them to be found, if the fire eaters insist upon trying their strength at home. The South will take care of them, without other aid, and we hope to see them turned over to that tribunal only."

The Kenosha Wide-Awakes.

In justice to the Kenesha "Wide-Awakes," who have been most grossly abused by the Democratic press, for their alleged discourtesy to Mr. Douglas, during his brief stop in that city, we copy from the Kenosha Tribung the following satisfactory explanation from the Captain of the Company:

AN EXPLANATION .- The undersigned has been requested by several persons of both parties to state the precise object of the Kenosha Wide-Awakes in attending the demonstration on Saturday evening last.
The Wide Awakes having heard that Stephen A. Douglas was expected to arrive on the 9 o'clock train and address the citizensof Kenosha, unanimously resolved to attend the meeting as a body, for the sole object of seeing Mr. Douglas and hearing what he had to say. On arriving at the depot we took our station where week peeted Douglas would make his egress from the cars. When the train arrived there was a general rush for the The Wide Awakes remained in their places, waiting further orders, when I was requested from head-quarters to bring the torches in front of the platform of the rear car. I gave the necessary orders, the band commenced playing "Yankee Doodle," and the company moved forward. I had not, as

Had Lincoln or Seward been on the plat-form, the same orders would have been given, and the same movement made. I do not present this explanation as an apologyfor I consider an apology unnecessary—but merely as a plain statement of facts.

evening. It is important that these gentlemen, re presenting nearly every commercial interest in Philadelphia, should go away with a favorable impression of our city, and altho' Milwaukee was not included in the catalogue of the cities they were to visit, we flatter ourselves that they will not consider the time they may occupy here as spent wholly in vain. Philadelphians, as a general thing, have but an imperfect idea of the wast resources of the North-west proper, namely: Wisconsin, northern Illinois, Iowa gion. and Minnesota, and there is certainly no easier way of informing themselves about it than by visiting its commercial emporium. That the visit will be productive of increased intercourse between the two cities, we have no doubt. Our business men will extend a cordial welcome to their Philadelphia breth-

Philadelphia Excarsionlets—Their Object in [From the Philadelphia Inquirer.]

As long ago as the fall of 1859, it was proposed at the Board of Trade in this city, that a committee of that body should visit the principal points of the West, for the purpose of establishing more extensive business pose of establishing more extensive business connections between the merchants of those ofties and our own, and of inviting attention to the advantages possessed by our city for trade-with the West, both by reason of its convenience of eccess by means of railways, and on account of the extensive manufacturing operations carried on here.

The subject, after some discussion, was then postponed, and was renewed again this spring, and its importance strongly urged by western members of the Board, and especially by Messrs. E. C. Biddle, Josha Bacon and Israel Morris. The project was finally determined upon about two weeks ago, and a committee of the members of the Board appointed to invite a number of others to form a party to proceed to the Western oites for the purpose of carrying out the original proposition. The committee was composed of Messrs. E. C. Biddle, Samula E. Sielles, Robert S. Reed, Richard Wood and Thos. S. Fernon.

The committee finally reported on the functional proposition of the firm of E. C. Knight & Go.

Singularly enough for an author capable of producing such a book, this is the only product of his pen in the department of fiction, and, that it should have caused him any regret—so serious and earnest was his turn of mind. Standing alone as it does it has gained for him the title of the " Scott of Italy."

Batural History Association. An interesting paper was read before the Association on Tuesday night, by Mr. KERR. In a few introductory remarks, he explained briefly the first steps of the young naturalist, where he must begin and how prosecute his studies, in order to hold converse with nature, and read understandingly the velume which she has opened before him. His remarks were illustrated by some beau tiful specimens of rocks, minerals and shells from his own cabinet, among which were several varieties of granite and the simple minerals of which it is composed-porphory and basalt; univalve, bivalve and muitivale shells, &c.

His paper urged the study of natural his tory, as affording a delightful occupation for leisure hours, inducing healthful and invigorating exercise in the open air, developing and cultivating the reasoning faculty, refining the sensibilities and inspiring a purer and more intelligent reverence for the Grea-

Trying to Coerce Men to Vote for Lincoln.

The Sentinel, for the hundredth time, yesterday morning laformed its resulers that "the choice is restricted to Lincoln and Breckfaridge." Who restricted to Lincoln and Breckfaridge and voting from rejecting both Lincoln and Breckfaridge and voting for Duglas? No one doubts that Duglas will receive work votes at the polls on the bits of next month than either of the other condidates named. A party must be hard pushed indeed, when it attempts to be tain votes for its candidates by coercion, presenting the choice to its own and most obnoxious sendidates in the field. But the people are not restricted to any such choice. News of posterday.

The idea of a gradual emancipation and removal of the slaves from the Commonwealth is coavel with the declaration of your own independance from the British yoke. It sprung into existence during the first session of the General Assembly, subsequent to the formation of your Republican Covernment. It was proper, there was a fitness of things in the fact, that so benificent an object as the plan for the gradual extinction of slavery in the States should have been the twin offering of that mind which gave birth of slavery in the States should have been the twin offspring of that mind which gave birth to the bill of rights and to the act for religious freedom. A fact so honorable to the public spirit and humanity of that age, so worthy of the genius and expanded philanthropy of those with whom it originated, cannot be too often recurred to nor too proudly cherished."

THE "QU KERS" ARE OUT. At a Republican meeting in Georgetown, Mass., the following song, entitled "The Quakers are Out," written by John G. Whitties, was read: Not vainly we waited and counted the hours,

The buds of our hope have burst out into flowers. No room for misglying—ne loop hole of doubt— We've heard from the Kaystone! The Quakers are The plot has exploded—we've found but the trick; The bribe goes a begging; the fusion won't stick. When the Wile Awake lanterns are shining about. The rogues stay at home, and the true men come out!

The good State has broken the cords for her spun; Her oil aprings and water won't fuse into one; Her oil springs and water won't fuse into one; The Dutchman has seasoned with Freedom his krout And slow, late, but certain, the Quakers are out! Give the flags to the wind i-set the hills all affame :

Death of Mr. Ingram -The Feeling in London

From the Illustrated London News of Sept. 25. With a trembling hand and sorrowing heart, we announce the death of Mr. Herheart, we announce the death of Mr. Her-bert Ingram, the founder and sole proprietor of the Hiustraled London News, who, to-gether with his eldest son, Herbert, perish-ed on Lake Michigan, in the lamentable dis-aster of the 5th inst. Exhausted by the fatigues of business and the labors of a long Parliamentary session, Mr. Ingram had resolved, during the recess, to pry a visit to the American continent, and there to seek, in company with his son, a brave and intelligent boy of fifteen, that relaxation he so much needed. He sailed from Liverpool in the North America on the 9th of August, and landed in Quebec in time to witness; and landed in Quebec in time to witness, after he had travelled the Lower St. Lawrence, the knocking of the "last wedge" of the Victoria Bridge at Montreal by the Prince of Wales. It was here Mr. logram took leave of the party of friends, who, on his landing, had attended him, stating that he "wished to be more quiet," and went on to the Falls of Niagara, where he stayed some days quiving the graphysic of the some days, sujoying the grandeur of the scenery around him with the keenest appre-In one of many characteristic letters received from him he says:

"Thank God I have been to see the Falls

"Thank God I have been to see the Falls of Kingara. The contemplation seems to exult while it soothes me; and amidst these wonders of the creation I forgot the realities and annoyances of life."

From Niagara Mr. Ingram proceeded to chicago, where he had first proposed to travel carcas the prairies, and to follow the Missssippi to New Orleans, and thence to New York, but more especially to Boston, which old associations of history had determined York, but more especially to Boston, which old associations of history had determined him to make the conclusion of his sojourn in the United States. In his last letter received from him, and dated Chicago, September 7, he states, however, that he had decided to visit Lake Superior, and to prolong his stay in America, proposing to return to England about the end of October. He left Chicago at midnight on the 7th of September, accompanied by his son; and our readers know the sad sequel to the story. It should, however, he added that his body was weashad ashore about sixteen miles from Chicago, and just at the time that one of his friends, Mr. Hayward, had arrived at the spot. Every effort was made to restore life, but in vain. Mr. Hayward states, in a most feeling letter, that Mr. Ingram's countenance in death "was perfectly calm and peaceful."

Herbert lugram, who was born in Boston, was in the forty ninth year of his age. In that town he began an active career, at eleven years of age, as a printer, and both as an apprentice and compositor, he there did do meny a good, hard day's work. He thus endeavored to assist in the support of his family, which, old and highy respected, had enjoyed comparative riches. To the interest of Boston, as his native town, he devoted throughout life much of the labor of his in-enjoyed comparative riches. To the interest of Boston, as his native town, he devoted throughout life much of the labor of his indefatigable nature. The pure water which its citizens drink—the gas which lights them —the railway, recently opened, that connects their town with the mid-districts of England—and many other "works which now remain," bear the impress of his fostering hand and kindly care. At Boston, as many of his friends are aware, he had intended to spend the evening of his days, resting from his many labors on his property at Swineshead Abbey. Boston was justly proud of him and through all the many phases of his evenful life, recognized his marits, and undeviatingly gave him its confidence. Three times in succession was he returned as its representative to Parliament, returned as its representative to Parliament returned as its representative to transment, and always by majorities most decisive and inmistakable.

His romains, which are expected to arrive in England in a few days, will be interred at Peace to the ashes of so worthy and so ex cellent a man—a kind husband and indulgent parent, a faithful friend, and a good citizen! citizen!

As the founder of this newspaper he origi-nated another era in the diffusion of knowledge and in the popularization and promo-tion of art. He introduced a new means of tion of art. He introduced a new means of improved education—a novel machinery, by which to chronicle, in pictures, as well as by description, just as it passes, the history of the world. This paper was the object of his utmost care and greatest pride. Only yesterday we found preserved among his most valued documents a relio, inscribed by his own hand, apparently but a short time before he left England:

"First number of the Illustrated London News. H. I."

The Itlustrated London News makes the following announcement:

following announcement:
. "The journal will continue in the care of those Air. Ingram himself had selected, and in whom he had long placed the highest confidence. These will, of course, have the able assistance of the authors and artists who have so far conduced so much to the popularity of the paper. It will be carried on for the benefit of his family (his widew on to the center of this ising this widow being sole proprietress); and every endeavor may be relied upon to ensure a continuance of that support for which the late Mr. Ingram labored so ardently and successfully. The public has, indeed, already offered some assurance of this in the numerous expressions of condolence and sympathy his mourning family here received both for mourning family have received both fror this country and from America."

purpose are in progress. Heretofore much complaint has been made as to the worth-lessness of seeds, but this in some degree was owing to the ignorance of the recipients regarding the mode of proper culture.

During the year ending Jane, the receipts from the sale of public lands were less than $2,000,000. Those recently sold yielded a very small amount, owing to the scarcity of money and other causes, and in many cases no bids at all were received. Four or five Cailioraia land cases will be argued be fore the Supreme Court of the United States at its next term, the great bulk of them, including millions of dollars, having already been adjudiciated.

CINCINSATE MARKET, OCT. 17TH. From the Gazette of Thursday morning:

In our market the trade for flour continues lifeless. Buyers contend for a decline, whils holders are unwilling to yield, and there is therefore no demand except from local dealers, who hay very spuringly.—Stocks are gradually accumulating. There was also a dull market for wheat, and prime red declined to $1,45. White was maintained at $1,1421,16 for prins. Corn dult at 406,400 for oid, and 506,380 for new. A fair demand for oat at 30c, Whitely, which has ruled steady for several weeks at 1374, dropped suddenly to-day to 15, and chosed heavy at the decline. Holders of bason shoulders made concessions to-day, which led to sates of 170 bhds in lots at 534. There were also sales of 22 bhds shoulders at 9c, and 35 thds clear sides at 1314. A portion of the shoulders were taken for Baltimore. Mess park quiet at $17,166,615,001. No change in Groceries. The jobbing trade is moderate. minnesota central bailbond company. Mesers, Col. R. B. Mason, Ambel Etonbe, Syillman WALL, SELAN CHAMBERLAIN, EDWARD B. WESLAT, DA-VID R. MARTIN, and Militan Courtweight, have filed in the office of the Secretary of State of Minnescia, in accordance with the provisions of the general Rail-road law of the State, articles for the incorporation of a company entitled "The Minnesota Central Railroad | Company." These gentlemen purpose to construct a Railroad from an Eastern and Southern connection by the lines of the Land Grant Railroads to Sr. Paul, and thence to St. Authory and Minneapolis and up the Mississippi Valley; forming part of a Central Line of Bande" new outstanding-the State to issue them new the cars are on the road. The Great Western Railway Company have placed upon their road a magnificent sleeping car. The interior arrangements are similar to those of the new car recently built by the Michigan Central Company. The wood work is of black warmt, the cushious criations are placed and the cuttains rate damast. At each end of the var are wash-rooms and saloons. The variable by four isoms supported from the road, and is ventilated by one of Mr. Sharp's very excellent ventilations at each end, and also by ventilators on each side of the car, which makes the ventilation are cached, and as by ventilators on each side of the car, which makes the ventilation very perfect—a great desideration in sleeping cars. It is can be also as the cash of accommodating forty-eight persons, and it is very nearly rainted outside. In all, it is a masterpiec of workmanship, and Mr. Sharp, the builder, the serves much credit.—Delical Free Press.
